

Service...Above and Beyond

Data shows that schools implementing PBIS with fidelity report dramatic reductions in office referrals, increases in student achievement, and noted improvement in positive school climate from students and staff.

"Rtl is not a program, but a way of instruction to reach all learners."

Response to Intervention: Academic and Behavior

Response to Intervention is defined as a process of achieving high levels of academic and behavioral success for ALL students.

Level 2—Customized Services

CESA #4 directors are available to help facilitate the development and implementation of Rtl systems, both academic and behavioral, based on the knowledge that we have of statewide initiatives. This support for districts will assist in the integration of curriculum and assessment with the Rtl initiative to develop a seamless School Improvement Plan.

2A. Academic and/or Behavioral Support

- Facilitation of district-wide Rtl academic and/or behavioral structure, for example, analysis of School-wide Implementation Review (SIR) and/or Self-Assessment Survey (SAS)
- Provide support during the implementation of the basic components of Rtl, including flowchart development
- Assist with the development of screening, progress monitoring tools, and decision-making rules

2B. Academic Instructional Coaching

- Provide ongoing instructional coaching with the goal of helping teachers incorporate research-based instructional practices
- Provide external coaching and support in data analysis tools for school-wide teams

2C. PBIS Coaching

- Provide ongoing coaching for educators with the goal of helping teachers incorporate classroom management strategies based on best practice
- Expand and sustain implementation of PBIS throughout district and/or buildings
- Assess training needs and connect with internal PBIS coach
- Support research for PBIS and provide technical assistance to PBIS teams
